To: Former and Current BGSU Firelands Students, Faculty and Staff

From: Dr. Joel Rudinger, Professor Emeritus

Re: Will you share a memory?

In 1965, the Ohio legislature approved the creation of a Bowling Green State University campus in the Firelands area of Ohio. Now, five decades later, in 2015, we are about to celebrate Bowling Green State University Firelands College’s 50 years of growth and change. To document this event, we are putting together a book-sized collection of 50 personal memories to celebrate the College’s 50th year anniversary.

We would like you to contribute to this collection.

Our goal is to select memories and impressions from former and current students which bring back the smiles or challenges of our campus. A recollection can be of extracurricular events, clubs or organizations, classes you took, a faculty or staff member you remember, a project you worked on, a field trip, hanging out, a sports activity, theater, the physical campus itself, in short anything that comes to mind that other students might enjoy.

If you are willing to share, please fill in the contact information below and email it with your personal memory to me at fireanniv50@bgsu.edu. If possible, we would like to have your input by the end of January 2015. All entries will be considered for final publication and all who participate will be kept in the loop as the collection comes together.

Thanks for helping.

Dr. Joel Rudinger

Contact information:

Your name: ___________________________________________________________

Years attended at BGSU Firelands: ________________________________________

Department and Field of Study (major): __________________________________

Home address: ________________________________________________________

Degree earned at Firelands: ___________________. Other degrees:____________

Email: ________________________________________________________________

Your memory in narrative form: